

i do not see what the NAB's problem is. as they said in their own press release, they have the best and most reliable sources for news and local information. i pay $10 a month for satellite radio and i would like to see traffic and weather updates in the areas that i am traveling without having to try and find the information tghrough all the commercials that are aired. we have a free market economy, if the radio stations have a problem with a competitor, they should not turn to trying to pass new laws in their favor, but should find a new way to compete with them.
